

Charles Rusnell & Jennie Russell

Recipients, Excellence in Education Journalism Award – Professional Category

Charles Rusnell and Jennie Russell are the reporters behind CBC Investigates, CBC Edmonton's full-time investigative unit.

They have broken many of Alberta's biggest stories including former premier Alison Redford's secret, publicly funded penthouse, the widespread practice of illegal political donations, and the exorbitant expenses and salaries of various government executives.

Rusnell and Russell have won numerous national and international awards and their investigative journalism has been widely credited with forcing accountability and democratic change in Alberta.
